It appears that Mary Whitherstone, a young, single woman, of respectable parents, residing up Broad Top, recently eloped with a colored man named Noble Robinson, living in the same neighborhood, who has a family consisting of a wife and five children. The mongrei couple stopped at Mount Union yesterday, for the purpose of being united in the bonds of matrimony. It happened, however, that some of the citizens of the place were acquainted with the betrothed parties, and knew Robinson to be a married man having derson was at Mount Union at the time, and was prevailed upon by a number of the citizens to interfere and prevent the consummation of the unnatural marriage. The sheriff, who has very decided convictions against the amalgamation of the white and black races, addressed a few plain words, in a very authoritative manner, to the sable skinned creature. The would-be bigamist became greatly frightened, and thinking there was imminent prospect of justice being meted out to him in a rather summary way, concluded to make a basty retreat which he did at a rate of speed seldom equaled by any of the biped species. Parsuit was made after him for a short distance for the purpose of frightening him effectually, The young woman who had such a strong taste in the selection of a husband, took the next east Broad Top train, and was soon speeding her way homeward, where she can lently brood over the sudden termination of her queer love.

This act, which we deem it best to publish ertire, inasmuch as the summary printed by us last week was not a strictly correct exposition of the bill as finally concurred in, disposes very effectually of the Local Option law, which it unconditionally repeals forthwith, but does not interfere with such absolute prohibitory laws as are now either fully or partially in force in Indiana and a few other counties.

BAZAAR OF THE NATIONS .- The "Press Association" correspondent writes as fol-lows from Philadelphia in regard to a gigantic enterprise which is about to be inaugura-ted in that city, and the success of which is undoubtedly assured from the fact that Mr. John Wanamaker, whose name is known in nearly every household in the land, not only ecanse of his proprietorship of the largest Clothing House in America, but because of his connection with many of the most philanthropic movements of the age, is the ori ginator and master spirit. So unique and unheard of an exhibition has never heretofore been attempted in this country, and we mistake the spirit of our people if they do not extend to it a patronage worthy of so great an undertaking having for its object so patriotic a purpose as the one it is de-signed to further. Referring to this extraordinary enterprise and the no less extraordinary man who has originated it, the "Press Association" correspondent says :

I have heretofore in these letters expresse wonder at the amount of work done by John Wanamaker, in organizing local committees throughout the country, charged with raising funds for the Centennial. The responsibility of raising the millions of dollars to carry out the intentions of the originators of the Exhibition, was placed in his bands, and right notify is he carrying on his work. It is done gratuitonsly, and now, in addition to the business cares that receive his attention for he personally directs the machinery that moves the largest clothing establishment in America, probably in the world—Mr. Wanamaker has termined that the Young Men's Christian Association shall have, here in Philadelphia, a building grand in size and architectural beauty, in which Christians and non-believers the world over shall be warmly welcomed

Christian charity.

Such a building will cost goveral hundred thousand dollars to erect and finish. It will be raised, and the first step towards valsing it has been taken by holding a great and nevel Enter-tainment. Exhibition and Sale, in this city, commencing March 23th, and continuing until the 24th of April. This entertainment is called "The Bazaar of the Nations," and the largest Hall in the city has been engaged in which to hold it. A large avenue will extend the catire hold it. A large avenue will extend the entire length of the Hall, and on either side will be erected houses, accurately representing the following nations; Germany, France, Italy, England, Scotland, Russia, Sweden, Switzerand, Venice, Turkey, Syria, China, America &c. These houses will be so substantially constructed as to render them perfectly sa'e. They will be supplemented with balconies, and draperies appropriate to their respective nation-

In each house will be established a Store or Bazaar, where ladies and their attendants, at tired in the national costume, will offer for said rare, fancy and useful articles, mainly the pro ductions of the countries they represent.

Entertainments of various description will be given in Jay-time and evening. Curiosities from every quarter of the globe will be exhibited. A Cafe will form one of the attractions. Street scenes of remote lands will be introduced, and the languages of the world may be heard on the busy thoroughfare.

Every effort is being put forth to make the Bazant the most attractive, interesting and instructive uffair ever brought before the people of Pennsylvania and the adjacent States.

OBITUARY.

COLLINS.—Died at his residence, in this piace, in Monday last, Peres Collins, sr. aged 83 Mr. Collins was born in the country Donegal

My. Collins was born in the country Donegal, Ireland, and emigrated to this country in 1816. After having as a contractor finished a portion of the present turnpike both east and west of this place, he settled in the village of Munster, midway between here and Cresson, in 1826. Several years after this, he was eiseted one of the Commissioners of the county. He was subsequently a canal or railroad contractor near New Lisben, Ohio, and when the Pennsylvania Railroad was commenced he received the contract for sinking Ohio, and when the Pennsylvania Railroad was commenced he received the contract for sinking the shafts of the tunnel at Gallitzin. He removed, with his family, to this place nearly twenty years ago. Mr. Collins was well and extensively known and universally respected. He was honest in all his business transactions, exemplary in all his conduct through life, and a zealous member of the Catholic church. His remains were taken to Summitvilie on Wednesday and buried in the Catholic graveyagd at that place, where his wife and several of his children rest. May he rest in peace. LEVI.-Died, in Barr township, on Thursday
